—There is no necessity now to send to Chicago or Rockford for a mantel or any cabinet or fancy wood work requiring carving and first class workmanship. Especially strangers, that a friend might do. They also do shopping for ladies out of town.

—A dispatch through the Associated Press from Pomona, California, states that Mrs. Helen Marble has sued for a divorce from her husband. The couple have been married thirty-three years and have children and grandchildren. Both are wrinkled and feeble, but the husband is livelier than the wife. The wife's cause for action is that the husband is too familiar with a pretty young niece Mrs. Marble brought to her home. These parties formerly lived in Dixon, we believe.

—The Republican Central Committee of this county met at the office of S. H. Bethea yesterday afternoon. Nearly all the members of the committee were present as were many leading Republicans from all sections of the county. All reported the party united and a disposition on the part of Republican voters to stand by the principles endorsed in 1888. Wednesday, June 11th, at two o'clock in the afternoon was named as the time and Dixon as the place for holding the convention to nominate a county ticket, consisting of Sheriff, County Clerk, Treasurer and School Superintendent. The convention will also appoint delegates to the congressional and senatorial conventions.

Senators in a Snarl Over those Original Packages.

WILSON STATES THE CASE OF IOWA.

An Important Legal Problem to be Solved—Stanford's Scheme to Lend the Granger Government Legal Tender—Debate on the Tariff Bill Closes in Confusion—Kemper's Case Argued—Looking for a Silver Veto—Congressional Record—Official News Notes.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 21.—The debate on the proposed law providing a means of evading the recent supreme court decision on "original packages" was begun in the senate yesterday, Wilson of Iowa opening the discussion. He said the bill was in response to a suggestion in the decision that congress could permit the exercise of the restraining power of a state, and it was for the purpose of giving that permission that the bill had been introduced and reported. The effect would be to have each state in the Union to determine for itself what its policy should be in regard to the traffic in intoxicating liquors. Under that decision of the supreme court the state of Iowa could not prevent the citizens of other states, or the subjects of Great Britain, France or Germany, sending intoxicating liquors into Iowa and having them sold by their agents in original packages by agents. At the present time original package saloons were being organized in his state. The package might be a pint or a half pint of whisky, or a keg or a bottle of beer.

Not a Power To Be Delegated.
Vest said that the authority of congress over interstate commerce was an exclusive power and could not be delegated, and he quoted authority for the statement. Gray agreed with Vest, but proposed that congress could declare that intoxicating liquors were not an article of interstate commerce. Vest said if that were done it would open the door for the prohibition of other articles. In answer to a question Vest said the right to sell it, and Hoar said that if congress could not control this question, there was not a more miserable nation on the face of the earth.

Extension of the Principle.
Hiscock asked Hoar whether, if a state desired to exclude, not liquors, but manufactures of wool, it was within the power of congress to delegate to states the power to do so. Hoar replied that he did not go quite that far, but the question involved was on the boundary lines between two conflicting powers—the police power of the state and the exclusive power of congress over interstate commerce. Hiscock thought it a doubtful policy to put it in the power of a state to prohibit the importation of anything it might wish to exclude, and of more doubtful constitutionality.

Interesting All Around.
Edmunds remarked upon it as a very curious and interesting circumstance that a condition of things had been reached, where, according to the debate and according to the judgment of the supreme court, there was in every man in one state an inherent individual, personal right to carry into another state what that state might consider injurious to its safety, and there sell it; that congress had no power to stop it, and the states could not stop it unless the congress gave them that power. Speaking of the importation of intoxicating liquor into a state, Edmunds claimed that once they got there, they were (whether in the hands of natives or not) the subject of the state laws, and that was what the supreme court of the United States would come to within the next twenty years.

A Presidential Veto Looked For.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 21.—Fresh rumors are afloat here to the effect that the president has again let an intimation of his position on the silver question out. The president is reported to have said that he would veto a free coinage bill and that any silver measure to meet his approval must have been passed by Republican votes.

STANFORD'S GOVERNMENT BANK.

Uncle Sam to Lend Money at 2 Per Cent. on Real Estate Security.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 21.—Stanford introduced in the senate yesterday a bill intended to carry out the idea, outlined in his resolution presented some time ago. The bill provides for the establishment in the treasury department of a land loan bureau, with a chief at $5,000 a year and an assistant at $5,000 a year to be appointed by the president. The treasurer is to cause to be printed, signed, and ready for issue circulating notes of the denomination of $5, $10, $20, $50, $100, $500, and $1,000 to the amount of $100,000,000, which shall be legal tender with gold and silver coin for like amounts, and these notes are to be held in the treasury by the land loan bureau and issued in accordance with the provisions of this bill.

Men Who May Borrow Money.

Every person who is a citizen or who has declared an intention to become a citizen and who is the owner in fee of unimproved agricultural land may file with this bureau an application for a loan to be secured by a lien on that land. The loan is not to exceed one-half the assessed value of the land, and no loan is to be for less than $250, or to run for more than twenty years. A copy of the application for a loan is to be filed with the recorder of deeds of the county or counties of the state or territory in which the land is situated, and it shall constitute a lien on the property.

Proving a Clear Title.

The applicant for a loan is to deposit a sum to be prescribed by the chief of the bureau sufficient to pay the costs of the examination of the title, inspection and appraisal of the land, and this work is to be done by persons in the respective counties to be designated by the chief of the bureau. When the chief is satisfied of the character of the security he is to transmit to the proper officer of the treasury department an order directing the payment of the money to be loaned, the amount to remain subject to the order of the applicant, who may draw it from time to time by check or draft. If the chief finds on investigation that there is an existing lien on the property of less than the amount of the loan asked of the bureau and warranted by law, the loan may be made, but the existing lien is to be discharged, and the amount of it deducted from the loan made by the government.

In Case of Default of Interest.

The bureau loans are to pay 2 per cent interest and this is to be payable annually, and in event of default of interest or principal, proceedings to foreclose the lien are to be begun in the state or federal courts, and to the amount of the principal and interest thus recovered are to be added costs and attorney's fees, the latter not to exceed $500 in any case. A borrower may pay back any part of the loan, not less than 35 per cent at any time and in the discretion of the chief may within twenty years' limit draw up to the full amount of the loan again. The bill is defined as applying to males and females alike.

SHALL KEMMLER DIE BY LIGHTNING?

The Question Argued Before the Supreme Court—Decision Reserved.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 21.—The murderer Kemmler's writ of error case was argued before the supreme court yesterday, and the court reserved its decision and adjourned to Friday. The case attracted a large audience to the supreme court chamber, among the listeners being ex-Attorney General Garland, ex-Secretary Bayard and several senators and representatives. The prisoner's counsel, Mr. Sherman, made a long and exhaustive argument to prove that the execution of Kemmler by electricity would be in violation of the Fourteenth amendment to the constitution in abridging the privileges and immunities of a citizen and depriving him of life without due process of law, and in violation of the Eighth amendment in inflicting cruel and unusual punishment.

Pith of the Arguments.

Mr. Sherman said there was no doubt that "electrocution" was unusual punishment, and also cruel. In substantiation of the claim he said that there was no sure method of telling how much the resistance of a man to the electrical current might be; it might be 100,000 ohms, in which case the punishment would be torture. A man might be cremated on the surface, or he might be carbonized. He also contended that the provision which makes the warden of the penitentiary executioner, instead of the sheriff, was unconstitutional.

Mr. Tabor spoke for the state and contended that there was no violation of the constitution in the proposed manner of execution. He confined his argument principally to showing that the claim of the plaintiff as to the application of the Eighth and Fourteenth amendments was wrong, and to citing authorities in support of his argument.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

An Anti-Lottery Constitutional Amendment—Tariff Work in the House.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 21.—Ingalls introduced a bill in the senate yesterday by request, to abolish metal money. Blair introduced a joint resolution proposing an article for the constitution prohibiting the United States or any state from authorizing any lottery or prize distribution. The bill providing a means of evading the original package decision came up, was debated at length, and went over. The remainder of the day was devoted to eulogies on the late Representative Kelly, which were delivered by Cameron, Morrill, Sherman, Hampton, Hawley and Daniel, and then as a further mark of respect the senate adjourned.

A long debate took place in the house on McKenna's motion to change the sugar schedule and make sugar dutiable, eliminating the bounty. The amendment was rejected, eleven Republicans, among them Kerr of Iowa, voting in the affirmative. Amendments offered by McKinley reducing the duty on rough building stone, putting American fish on the free list, changing the duty on shotguns and pistols, taxing bristles 10 cents per pound, and imposing a tax of 5 cents a gallon on alcohol used to make vinegar, and putting the manufacture under control of the internal revenue commissioner, were all adopted. All amendments other than committee amendments were rejected. A scene of great confusion began and lasted until 11:20 p. m., when the committee rose and the house adjourned.

Norvin Green on Postal Telegraph.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 21.—Dr. Norvin Green was before the house committee on postoffices and post roads yesterday and was questioned as to the proposed government postal telegraph. Dr. Green said that the reduction of rates in the government scheme was from 50 to 60 per cent. from Western Union rates, and that the business could not be done by the Western Union except at a loss. He said he was prepared to prove this and would prove it in the case against the government which the company has pending in the courts. He referred to European government telegraphs and said that not one of them had started the business in competition with its own citizens; they had all bought out the existing private companies at fair prices, and he charged that for the United States to do otherwise would be bad faith and a broken pledge.

A Time of It in the House.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 21.—The house last night continued in intense confusion from 6 until 11:20 p. m. This was caused by the fact that the vote on the tariff bill had been ordered for to-day at noon, while dozens of members wanted to have amendments voted upon. Lind of Minnesota, Hitt and Taylor of Illinois, and Henderson of Iowa made three attacks on portions of the bill which did not suit them, and McKinley suggested that gentlemen be given leave to print their proposed amendments. Henderson wanted to know what good that would do, he wanted votes on his propositions. But McKinley was inexorable and the debate closed.

The Immigration Laws.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 20.—Henry D. Wireman, solicitor of the German society of Pennsylvania, and A. M. Dewey, the late editor of the official organ of the Knights of Labor in Philadelphia, appeared before the joint committee of the senate and house on immigration yesterday. In behalf of the Germans Dr. Wireman urged that the law be let alone, except to be literally and emphatically defined the words "pauper" and "contract labor," while Mr. Dewey wanted the law made more stringent, and a provision inserted requiring that immigrants be able to read and write English before they are allowed to land.

Talks to the Commerce Committee.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 21.—Ex-Senator Conger, of Michigan, and Representative Farquhar, of New York, yesterday addressed the house commerce committee in favor of providing additional appropriations for lighthouses and other aids to navigation on the great lakes. Representative Swenny, of Iowa, addressed the committee in favor of a bill to amend the interstate commerce law so as to prevent the shipment of liquors to prohibition states.

Max C. Bradley, a popular and well connected young resident of Madison, Wis., blew out his brains Tuesday. The rash act is attributed to a love affair.

TRAIN A HUSTLER.

The "Psycho" on His Globe-Girdling Journey.

SHORT STOP AT THE GARDEN CITY.

He Raises Cain Because His Orders Were Disobeyed, but Feels Better After Buying Out the Station Lunch Counter for the Benefit of Emigrants and Loungeurs—How the Remarkable Old Fellow Looks, and a Specimen of His Talk.

CHICAGO, May 21.—George Francis Train arrived here on the Lake Shore at 9 p. m. yesterday and left on the Chicago and Northwestern for Tacoma two hours later. A large number of newspaper men and others met him at the Northwestern station. He raved violently because his telegraphic orders that the dining room be kept open had not been obeyed, and then soothed his feelings by buying out the lunch counter for the benefit of the loungeurs and emigrants in the station.

Personals of the Party.

George Francis looks still just as natural as life. He himself is tanned by the suns and his clothes bear the dust of a score of countries, but he talks just as fast and just as much as ever, and in the same strain. He was accompanied in his flying trip by S. W. Wall, formerly managing editor of the Tacoma Ledger. This gentleman makes the trip for the purpose of gathering material for a book, but the citizen has chosen to call him his "private secretary and Kodak amanuensis." In New York Messrs. Hoy and Kellogg, of the Sun, and Mr. Beard, of the New York Central road, joined the party.

A Look at George Francis.

Train himself was dressed in a style so unique that none but himself could have devised it. His clothes were of odd pattern, and as dusty as a country road. He wore shining patent leather shoes, the tops of which he concealed in a pair of gaiters about the color of a yellow dog. About his waist and in lieu of suspenders he had tied a flaming red sash, and covering his long flowing gray hair was his "double decker" hat about the size of a bushel basket. On the upper deck of the hat was printed in big black letters, "George Francis Train," and on the lower deck was the rest of the inscription, "Round the world in sixty days."

Shakes Hands by Proxy.

To the newspaper men who met him the Psycho said: "I make my respects to you, but clasp your own hands, please, and I will do the same. I never shake hands with any one, you know. I'll introduce you to Wall. He's my private secretary and the greatest shaker you ever saw. Did I have a good trip? Well, there never was a better one, and I have broken the records all to smash. Just think of it! Isn't it a marvelous thing? Here, I started from Tacoma sixty-one days ago and now I'm around here again faster than was ever done before. I've not only broken the records, but have shown Jules Verne what a do it he is.

Worried Over a Lost Day.

"He wrote a big book of fiction on 'Around the World in Eighty Days,' and I have gone around, in fact, in a little over sixty. And, besides that, I lost a great deal of time that could be saved on a second journey. I could make this same trip again in fifty days, and do it without a struggle. To cap the whole thing I dropped a day somewhere in the Pacific ocean. Just think of it, when it was my birthday, too. I'm going around the other way to see if I can't pick that day up somewhere.

His Bash Didn't Agree with Him.

"Lots of funny things have happened on the trip. People didn't know what to make of me. They couldn't believe. Everybody used to think that this world was a big concern, but I've made it look mighty small. I've talked Japanese in Japan, Chinese in Yokohama, and Arabic to the Arabs. While Wall there was to be arguing with a lot of porters I'd step up and tell 'em what we wanted in a minute, so they knew what we wanted and ran and got it. Haven't slept in a hotel but twice on my trip. The food bothered me a good deal, and I don't feel just like myself. I've been eating the stale vegetables of a dozen nations.

A Thing That Made Him Weep.

"But I got even with them all. I turned them all up topsy-turvy and made them think my trip was the marvel of the age. And so it is. One thing made me weep, though, and that was that wherever I went I failed to find the American flag. It made me almost ashamed of the country, but I've an idea how to remedy that. I want the Chicago World's fair commissioners to take up this idea of commerce and scatter American flags the world over. They can do it. I'll help them, and we'll send this little world that the flag isn't dead yet.

"Yes, I had that telegram from a museum manager asking me for an engagement, but I telegraphed back and told him that I would never lecture again except to advertise the Chicago fair. And I have another scheme for the fair, and it's a big one. I want to take a party of 250 American newspaper men around the world with me. I can do the whole thing in fifty days at $10 a day. That would be the biggest thing ever thought of. Just get around a little and let the world know we're alive, and see how they will come to the fair.

Around the World in Fifty Days.

"Here's my programme. Isn't it a good one? Here you have the whole thing. Chicago World's fair excursion; fifty days at $10 a day. Five hundred passengers, that's $500,000. Then we'll travel in special steamers, special cars, and have balls, operas, theatres, and debates every day. Concerts, operas, salt water baths, brass bands, and libraries. Just think of it. There will be ample time to Kodak everything, and any one who goes with me will get more education than Greek and Latin books would teach them in a lifetime." And in a few minutes the globe girdler was off for the far west.

MARIA WENDLE AT HOME.

Her Escape Was an Elopement with the Lover Mostly Missing.

OAKLAND, Ills., May 21.—Maria Wendle, who mysteriously disappeared two weeks ago, was brought home by her father from Indianapolis yesterday morning. The girl was found there at the house of a friend of her lover and taken to the home of her Indianapolis aunt. The girl was easily induced to tell the story of her flight. Her lover is Lee Gwinn, the son of A. J. Gwinn, of Brockton. She said he had promised to marry her and to join her in Indianapolis, where the wedding was to take place.

Story of Her Travels.

She left the Brown residence, May 8, making her egress through the window, Gwinn furnishing the ladder. He then drove her to Newman, where she took the midnight train for Indianapolis. While in Indianapolis at a hospital she received two letters from Gwinn under his own signature. These letters will be used against him. As soon as the girl's statement had been reduced to writing and sworn to, officers of this city were telegraphed to arrest Gwinn.

The Lover Not Yet Now.

The officers went to Brockton yesterday morning to make the arrest, but found that Gwinn had gone. Gwinn's father, it is alleged, drew a large knife on the officers and threatened to carve them, but was persuaded by a display of revolvers to remain quiet. Yesterday afternoon three warrants were sworn out for Gwinn. There will be a civil suit brought against him for breach of promise in the sum of $10,000. Besides Gwinn, whose people are very wealthy and prominent, there are three or four other persons who are charged with aiding and assisting in the abduction, but their names are withheld.

Other Suspects Shadowed.

Each party is being closely shadowed by the police, and any attempt at escape will be followed by prompt arrest. The return of the girl has excited a great deal of indignation against Gwinn and the people who were connected with the abduction. A subscription is now being made up by the public to offer as a reward for Gwinn's capture, and the governor will also be asked to offer an additional sum from the state.

QUEER PUBLIC SENTIMENT.

It Approves of a Cold-Blooded and Cowardly Murder.

SALT LAKE, May 21.—News has reached here of the killing of Mr. Collin, of the firm of Collin & Kilpatrick, contractors of Omaha, near Pioche, Nev. Two men who had been working at railroad grading for Collin quit their job and went to him and demanded their money. Collin told them they could not quit and that he would not pay them. They again demanded their money and Collin persistently refused to pay it. One of the men then went to the laborers' camp and got a Winchester.

Eight Minutes to Live.

Armed with this weapon they once more came to Collin, and made a formal demand for their wages. Collin told them it was useless to try to bulldoze him, as he wouldn't pay them when they quit work in such a shabby manner without warning. One of the men took his watch from his pocket and said: "We'll give you just eight minutes to settle. If you don't pay them, we'll put daylight through you. We mean business, so don't waste any time or you will make work for the coroner."

Was It Nerve or Incredulity?

The other man leveled the Winchester at Collin, and watched the contractor closely, while his companion told off the minutes. At each count he advised Collin to hurry up. They were so cool in their talk that bystanders thought it was a bluff and Collin evidently regarded it in the same light. If he thought they meant to kill he showed immense nerve, for he never changed countenance during the whole time the man, with watch in hand, was counting off his last eight minutes on earth.

The Infamous Deed Done.

Finally when the fellow said, "Eight minutes; time's up," the man with the Winchester pulled the trigger and put a bullet through Collin's heart. The contractor dropped dead in his tracks. A most infamous feature of the affair is that more than a score of men were eye witnesses, but no effort was made to prevent the crime, and when Collin lay in his blood no arrests were made. In fact, the general sentiment seemed to be that the men were justified in the act.

Although dangerously wounded the justice pulled out a knife and stabbed Odum twice near the heart. Both men are still alive, but may die.

Jeffery to Go to the Lake Shore.

CHICAGO, May 21.—It is stated upon good authority that E. T. Jeffery, lately general manager of the Illinois Central, will soon accept a position on the Lake Shore railroad either as general manager or as President John Newell's assistant. It is stated that it was the offer of this position which induced Mr. Jeffery to refuse the position of director general of the World's fair.

HE BLEW IT ALL IN.

Johnny Eagan Disposes of Half a Million,

AND ENDS HIS DAYS IN POVERTY.

His Father Strikes it Very Rich on Coal Lands, and Leaves the Son $500,000—Unique Methods of Getting Rid of the Lucrative Two Thousand Dollars for an Exclusive Entertainment—His Effort for the Mollie Maguire.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 21.—John Eagan, a second "Coal Oil Johnny" and an individual of many eccentricities, has just died at the Hillside poor house. Eagan was the only son of Patrick Eagan, who located in the Lackawanna valley forty years ago. The father bought a forty-acre farm, which afterward turned out to be a mint. There was coal underneath, and one day Eagan received an offer of $500,000 for his land, which he accepted. He did not live long to enjoy his fortune, however. The next year he died, and his great wealth reverted to his son.

Much Wealth Was His Ruin.
The latter was brought up a hard-working boy on a farm, and his sudden acquisition of a fortune evidently turned his head, as he took to drinking and carousing, and spending money in a reckless manner. He thought nothing of spending $200 in an evening's enjoyment among friends and boon companions, which he had in plenty at that time. Many stories are told of his queer escapades. One of them was of his riding down Lackawanna avenue, Scranton, on horseback one summer night, about ten years ago.

A Barroom Incident.
He was going along leisurely playing on the violin, on which he was an adept, until he espied the open door of a saloon. He drove his horse through the opening into the barroom, still playing on his favorite instrument. He ordered drinks for the whole crowd, wheeled about and drove out again. This is only one of the queer and amusing actions of this poor unfortunate, who squandered enough money to keep himself and friends living in affluence for the remainder of their lives.

Wanted to See a Barn Burn.
One day he went out in the country and gave a farmer $2,000 to set fire to his barn. He said he wanted to see the hay and straw burn. On another occasion he gave $100 to Ted McNulty to let him punch him in the eyes until they were black. One Fourth of July he got tired waiting for a regular train to carry him twenty-eight miles. He paid the railroad management $600 for a special train to carry him to his destination. When the Mollie Maguire was condemned to the gallows, Eagan went to Harrisburg with a certified check for $100,000 and offered it to Governor Hartranft if he would pardon the Mollies.

Another Unique Exhibition.
He had two locomotives built at a machine shop and had them shipped to his farm. He built a track 300 feet long, and after both engines got up a good head of steam he caused the throttles to be opened. The two engines came together with a great crash. Eagan said the sight of seeing them come together was worth what they cost. The locomotives were of no use afterward. When his money was all gone Eagan was a pitiable sight. His clothes were ragged and no shoes adorned his feet. No one recognized him, despite the fact that in his days of prosperity he helped many a poor family in their struggles with the world.

SALISBURY ON SOCIALISM.

The British Premier Seems to Have Some Broad Gauge Views.

LONDON, May 21.—In reply to the earl of Wemyss in the lords yesterday, who had attacked the Socialistic tendencies of certain acts of public bodies, Lord Salisbury said that Socialism might be defined as the state doing something that might be done by private persons for the sake of gain. Sometimes this was a very unwise thing to do, and at other times wise. There was nothing so Socialistic as the mint and the postoffice, yet at the same time there was nothing more justifiable. The public could be trusted to find out what practical good lies behind the Socialistic doctrine.

Where There Is Smoke There's Fire.

Nobody not absolutely blind could deny the existence of great evils from which arose the Socialist proposals and action. Industrial and other causes produced great centers of misery. We are bound to do all we can to remedy these evils even if we get called Socialists, knowing we are undertaking no new principle or striking out on no new route, but are simply pursuing the long and healthy tradition of English legislation.

Lord Salisbury's remarks were received with cheers.

Lord Lytton stood at the left of the altar with Prince Caraman and the Baron de Beyens. At the right with her mother stood the bride. The family into which Miss Ward has married is said to possess not the best reputation.

A Mathematical Demonstration.

Danvers—Come, Markham, surely you are not going to propose to that absurd Miss Leavenworth, are you? Markham—Why, man, she has a dozen splendid farms out in Kansas. Danvers—Yes; and she's at least forty-two. Markham—Oh, you miss it by about fifteen summers, my boy. Danvers—You are being deceived, old man—wofully. I heard her describing the fourteen year locusts; and she said nobody could tell her anything about them, because she had seen them three times.—Harper's Bazar.

Horrors of Pompeii.

But among all the beauties there are many horrors in Pompeii that leave lasting impressions. There are casts taken from the molds of ashes that increased the victims of the great catastrophe, showing their writhings and agonies as plainly as though they had just died. There are signs of the daily life that was being lived when the ashes began to fall; occupations half done and suspended in the awful moments when the danger became only too apparent.—Washington Star.

Soft Coal a Disinfectant.

The belief that smoke from soft coal may have beneficial sanitary effects is gaining ground. It is claimed that sulphur in the coal when burned becomes highly disinfectant. Further, that creosote and its allied products are thrown off with the fumes of bituminous coal, and that an atmosphere charged with carbonic acid must be freer from germs of disease than an apparently purer air.—New Orleans Picayune.

To Make Pulled Bread.

Pulled bread is liked particularly well by English people, we are told. They eat it with cheese. To make pulled bread, take a loaf of freshly baked bread, while it is still warm, pull the inside of it out in pieces the size of your hand and smaller, and put these into the oven and bake them to a delicate brown. When cool they are crisp and thought to be especially good with cheese.—New York Telegram.

About the Ear.

Ears vary greatly in form and size, and the peculiarities of shape they assume sometimes give an index to the character of the individual. Women have much better shaped ears than men. They are usually much smaller, and lie close to the head. Some people possess a singular muscular power over the ear, and can move the upper part at will, but it is rarely met with.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Our Dunces.

Among persons who have good cause to congratulate themselves that their lines have been cast in the "so called Nineteenth century" is our old friend the school boy dunce. Dunces are now going to be treated on scientific principles. Twenty or thirty years ago they were made to stand on a bench with a paper extinguisher on their heads as a sign of disgrace.—London Telegraph.

Strong Evidence.

"Young man," said the boarding mistress, sternly, "your comments are out of place. I made biscuits, sir, fifty years ago." "Very likely," was the sinner's reply, adding in an undertone to his side partner, "and if circumstantial evidence goes for anything, this specimen I'm whetting my teeth on is one of 'em."—Philadelphia Times.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

By local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Miles' Nerve and Liver F.
An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Sample free at Tillson Hayden's.

A Remarkable Letter

The following letter from Mr. W. A. Thompson, of Columbus, Wis., is peculiarly interesting. "My wife," says he, "has been treated for her head, stomach and nervous prostration by three doctors in New York, two in Chicago, one in Philadelphia one in Cincinnati, and at the large institute in Buffalo for 16 months. They all failed. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve helped her wonderfully." This should be used in all headaches, backache, changes of life, nervous disturbances, fits, rheumatism, etc. Ask at Tillson & Hayden's drug store for a free trial bottle and Dr. Miles' new book on the Nerves and Heart.

If you or any of your family should happen to be frightfully burned or scalded, what have you in the house to alleviate the pain until you can get a physician? A box of Begg's German Salve at hand in times like this would save a world of sufferings and oftentimes a doctor bill, as it has no equal in cases of this kind, as well as inflammation of all kinds.

D. S. HORTON, Druggist.

A Fortunate Woman.

Mrs. Mary L. Baker, of Ovid, Mich., has reason to be very thankful. She was a great sufferer from heart disease for years. Was short of breath, had hanging spells, pain in side, fluttering, faintness, etc. After taking two bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, she says: "I am better than for 20 years. My mind and eyesight have improved wonderfully. I advise all persons thus afflicted to use this great remedy. Tillson & Hayden, druggists, recommend and guarantee it. Dr. Miles' work on Heart Disease, containing marvelous testimonials, free."

A continual coughing is very annoying to persons sitting near you in any kind of a gathering; besides, it is of great damage to the throat and lungs, and is exceedingly dangerous at this season of the year. One-half bottle of Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup will relieve any ordinary cough, and this remedy costs no more than the inferior grades that are thrown on the market to sell at enormous profits. D. S. HORTON, Druggist.

From Nachusa.

The sad intelligence was received here recently of the death of Mrs. M. F. Garrison, of Ohio, Nebraska, who died May 7. Had she lived but two days longer she would have been 73 years old. She was born in Pennsylvania. Her maiden name was Miss Ellen Girton. She was married to Matthias Garrison over forty years ago and lived in Dixon, after which they bought and moved on the farm now owned by Philip Miller. Remaining there until about twelve years ago, they moved to Nebraska. She was a person loved by every one for her kind generous disposition. At her home she always gladly welcomed her friends. The writer well remembers how cordially she was received last autumn and with what sadness she parted with this kind friend who remarked: "We will meet no more in this world." She was a devoted christian wife and mother and leaves a kind husband and two daughters besides a number of grand children and many friends to mourn her departure. Her funeral was very largely attended and the remains interred in the Ohio cemetery.
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Quinlan and two daughters, Miss Mae and Rosalind, together with M. F. Garrison, will start for Colorado and California in a short time for the benefit of Mrs. Quinlan's health. We wish them a pleasant journey and a safe return.
Mrs. J. M. Santee, daughter, Miss Mattie and son Charles, spent last Sabbath at Perry Cortright's.
Miss Lillie Deputy was the guest of Mrs. William Brierton of Nelson, last Sunday.
The program for the Institute at the Bend, Sunday May 25 for the afternoon is as follows: Invocation, Rev. Ruthrauff. Song, "Our Sunday School," school. An address, Superintendent. Song, "A Cheerful Band," Infant classes. Recitations by four little ones. Song, "Sound the Battle cry," school. Recitations by four young ladies. Song, "Ashamed of Jesus," Quartette. Recitations by two young ladies. Song, "On Calvary." Also recitations and songs by members of the Kingdom Sabbath school. Rev. Ruthrauff and Bunker, Messrs. E. C. Smith and Albert Moore, L. B. Neighbor and others are expected to be present and speak encouraging words on Sunday school work. In the evening a Bible reading will be conducted by Rev. Hartman, Mr. Charles Herbst and others together with a song service. All are invited.
Josiah Fry and L. E. Hart are the right men in the right place, having over one thousand dollars subscribed for the church. S. W. Miller gives the land adjoining the cemetery. Our young men can find no better purpose for which to give a V or X. The people at the Bend are very liberal in subscribing. All persons willing to give a large or small amount can see these gentlemen. It will require about two thousand dollars so we understand. N. H.

From Sablette.

Elder Robinson, a later day Saint, of Independence, Mo., preached last Sunday afternoon in the school house two miles northwest of town, and it is probable that he will preach in the town hall next Sunday. He laid down four principles as necessary to obtain salvation, namely, Repentance, faith, baptism by immersion, and the laying on of hands. The three thousand converts added to the church on the day of Pentecost complied with all these principles and were saved. Those who hope to get into the kingdom and yet neglect either of these duties will not be saved.
The railroad carpenters have re-shingled the freight house and passenger house and are making other repairs on the railroad buildings. J. B. B.

I. S. Doten, Justice of the Peace and merchant of Bristol, Ill., says he can recommend St. Patrick's Pills. "I have used them," he says, "and know whereof I speak." Any one troubled with constipation or biliousness will find them a friend. They are prompt and certain in their action and produce a pleasant cathartic effect. For sale by H. E. Donaldson.

My offer of $100 has not been taken, nor would $500. The fact is, there is no pump made that can compete with the COMBINED AIR and CISTERN PUMP, for purifying water when used in combination with my well, for cisterns, it will draw water from the well or cistern, thus saving an extra pump. The well is improved, the water passes down below the bottom of the cistern through five feet of gravel and sand before entering the well, then upwards in the well through gravel, sand and charcoal, properly prepared and packed. This will keep the water cold, remove all live animal matter, and the well will not require to be repacked. How different from this is an ordinary well where the earth is the filter; there may be some dead reptile at the bottom of the well, or the water may contain poison. If water passing through the earth will become hard, adulterated with lime, why will it not hold filthy poisonous matter in solution. The well will be furnished at a reasonable price. Price of cistern pump at shop, $4.00. There should be an air pump in every cistern where there is a chain or suction pump, it will keep the water good. Price of air pump $1.00. E. EMMERT, Dixon, Ill. DIXON, ILL., MAY 14, 1890.

We are using Emmert's Combined Air and Cistern pump, like it, and think it the true principle for purifying cistern water. MRS. J. R. CARPENTER, Dixon, May 19, 1890.

I have one of Mr. Emmert's Air Pumps in my cistern and I like it very much. Can truly recommend it as an excellent article. MRS. J. W. MARTIN, Dixon, May 15, 1890.

I have one of E. Emmert's wells in my cistern; it has been there seven years and has not been repacked. It furnishes pure water. I want no better. I consider it of great value to the public. W. H. MADON, Dixon, May 20, 1890.

I have one of Emmert's Combined Air and Cistern Pumps in my cistern; it is all he claims for it. A. F. ROBINSON, North Dixon, May 21, 1890.

I have one of Emmert's Air Pumps, and in five months the water became purer and sweeter. I could not have spent a dollar to better advantage. MRS. E. F. FARGO, Dixon, May 21, 1890.
